Murdered:

The evidence to determine if a soldier was murdered or died of combat wounds is a daunting task. In a few incidents there was an eye-witness to verify that the soldier was shot, but in many cases this evidence is missing. Despite the difficulty of making a definite determination as to cause of death, Canada's Department of Veteran's Affairs states that "up to 156 Canadian soldiers were illegally murdered in scattered groups, in various pockets of the Normandy countryside."
